

Giles Radford, Head of Highway Construction and Infrastructure at the City of London

Giles Radford has over 20 years' experience in the construction sector. Originally, specialising in Civil Engineering, Giles' role has grown in the last six years resulting in the management of the City of London's electrical team.

With a desire to deliver best practice, Giles has helped to lead the team in delivering a street lighting strategy lead by a sophisticated LED upgrade programme, which will in turn provide a digital platform for smart city technologies.

<https://www.cityoflondon.gov.uk>